

EXPORT LOG SALES

Timberlands Limited manages a total of 225,000ha of FSC certified plantation forest on behalf of a number of internationally respected forest owners, including the world renowned 189,000ha Kaingaroa Forest - the largest plantation forest in New Zealand. On behalf of these forest owners, Timberlands supply, through our export agents, large quantities and ongoing consignments of predominantly radiata pine to various export markets in the following products:

- Pruned & Partial Pruned Logs
- Structural Logs
- Poles
- Utility (A & K Grade)
- Industrial (KI & Pulp Logs)
- Chip

The owners of these forests consider the importance of long-term value and expect forest management planning to achieve a consistent and incremental harvest future. With this goal in mind and a sustainable FSC volume being produced from the Kaingaroa Forest, an even and consistent supply of export wood products can be assured all year round. This is achievable due to the central location and geographical features of the Kaingaroa Forest, including flat terrain and pumice soils creating a waterproof forest for year-round harvesting.

Through operational contracts, Timberlands currently manage a harvest and transport regime of over 3.5 million m³ of log and chip products per year. A very effective supply chain is achieved through mechanised harvesting, including the Kaingaroa Processing Plant (KPP), which is suitably located right in the centre of the Kaingaroa Forest estate. The convenient use of an export yard, rail transport, efficient port facilities and controlled shipping provide further efficiencies and superior customer satisfaction.

Sales and shipping of these logs and chip products are handled by NZ award winning selling agents, Pacific Forest Products Limited (PFP) who act on behalf of Timberlands Limited. PFP provide trusted experience in vessel management, charters and international sales and are currently shipping (or have potential to ship) to most major ports in Asia, India and the Middle East. Other international markets are continuously being considered. The scale of their operations ensures a regular, efficient and cost effective shipping service.
